

NO ENCAMPMENT THIS SUMMER

National Guard will Hold Brigade Camps This Summer. Gettysburg Must Look for Something Else for "Big" Event. Grand Army.

As is generally known Gettysburg will not have the division encampment of the National Guard this coming Summer, 1900 being the year for brigade encampments. Those three encampments are always held elsewhere and as a result the "big" event of the coming Summer will have to be something else. The encampment of the Department of Pennsylvania Grand Army of the Republic seems to be the most promising event for next season.

This organization wishes to come here this Summer and with them the Ladies of the Grand Army and the Women's Relief Corps. The Grand Army officials have sent their contract here stipulating the expenses Gethysburg will be required to meet if the town wants the encampment. Several local citizens whose names have appeared in this connection recently are endeavoring to secure subscriptions to meet this amount but as yet have not succeeded in obtaining sufficient to warrant their signing and returning the contract. Until the money required is subscribed the contract will not be signed and returned and the encampment will not be assured before this is done.

In the meantime other places in Pennsylvania will benefit by the holding of the brigade encampments at the National Guard. Somerset has practically been accepted as the site of the next encampment of the 1st Infantry Division. William J. Higgins stating that he had received a favorable offer as to grounds, water supply and lumber. As the Somerset ground tents before has been used by the Second Brigade and proved an excellent camp ground, there is little doubt that the 1st Division will select C. Wiley will of B. K. the site, from a sanitary standpoint.

The Second brigade camped on the Somerset site in 1901 and 1902, finding the location well suited for a camp of advantages of an excellent country for the maneuvers which are now an important part of the Summer tour of duty.

Under the wholesome inspiration and guidance of Secretary P. D. Coburn, Kansas stands at the head of the list of states in the production of alfalfa, which constitutes the badge of her wealth and prosperity.

A series of experiments serving to demonstrate the cost of filling silos conducted by the Illinois experiment station on ten different farms showed that it ran from 40 to 76 cents per ton, the average for all being about 56
